AMUSEMENTS.

Primrose and Dockstader's Minstrels. Tonight is the date of Primrose and Dockstader's Minstrels and judging by the sale of tickets will play to a big nouse, because everyone is anxious to see these two noted artists togetcher. Possibly the highest sort of compliment to this attraction is the verdict of the Atlanta Journa l last which follows:

Your old-fashioned theatergoer who "the good old days" and bewhen Lew Dockstader and George T. W. Mayne, of Pensacola, Primrose brought back genuine old-time minstrelsy to Atlanta.

The show stands and succeeds on the intrinsic merit of the best of songs, both new and familiar, really funny lokes limber dancers and unrifunny jokes, limber dancers, and unrivalled singers. It is the people, not the scenery, that makes the Dockstader-Primrose show without peer, While Primrose and Dockstader's minstrels smack at times of the vaude-villian in that many of the show's features were at one time in the same circuit that plays Atlanta, this charac-

what may be summed up as an ideal Primrose and Dockstader themselves were welcomed Thursday night by many old friends Lew is the same old Lew as of yore, a little huskier, a litetl fatter, a little funnier. He had Uncle George out Thursday night, and Uncle George brought down the house in accordance with his custom.

And George Primrose! George is omething like that old brook of Tennyson's. And not only does he go on forever, apparently, but his flow appears to be as equable and pleasing as it was on the upper reaches of the stream. George Primrose has made soft-shoe dancing a classic, and al-though 'tis hardly possible that George can shake a foot as actively as he did fifteen years back, yet to many in Thursday night's audience it seemed as if that graceful dancer beyond the sheen of the footlights was the same ellow that was so popular here years

The first act of Primrose and Dockstader's minstrels is typical of the oldstyle minstrel. "Happy Jack" Lambert is the funniest of funny end nen, and so is Tom Brown. Even the my husband thought surely I would interlocutor, generally a rather cheap die. person of Harry Sievers assumes

It was a great show, such a show as can be found only where two such jovial fellows as Lew Dockstader and George Primrose are together. Come Lew! Come back, George! You'll always find a welcome at Atlanta's front door. We like you and we like your show.

DEBUT OF MISS BARBARA PARKHILL.

Saturday evening Judge and Mrs. C. B. Parkhill were host and hostess at a very brilliant ball, which they gave at the Tamps Country Club in compliment to their daughter, Miss Barbara Parkhill, whom they formally introduced to society, says the Tampa

This was the opening formal social event of the season and the pretty club was never more beautifully decorated nor merrier than when this attractive young girl made her formal low to society.

The reading room where the reception line stood was a bower of beauty with its magnificent floral decoration pink and green being artistically combined. Masses of pink and white with a delicate border of green. The orchestra, which was seated in the hall behind a screen of greens, played Mary Campbell, of Pensacola, will act others assisting. The mantel was chrysanthemums, potted plants and adorned with vases of pink Killarney roses and ferns and silver candelabra pink tapers. The lights were shaded in pink and during the recep-tion of the guests and later for the dancing, Gourlie's orchestra rendered a beautiful musical program.

The ball room was most attractive with its decoration of ferns and flowers. Arches over the doorways and vines, fern and flowers and potted plants outlined the wall, The large E. Brawner, Mr. and Mrs. Fleming mantel at the end of the room was bridal cake, which was ornamented Brawner, Mr. and Mrs. Patillo Camp- banked with beautiful pink Killarney with glace lilies and ribbon. Mrs. bell and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Sowell, of roses and fern and silver candelabra held pink tapers. A loylier scene could not have been found for this delightcoom door by Mrs. Sheldon Stringer, Mrs. Frank Cooper and Mrs. H. T. Lykes, Jr. In the receiving stood Judge and Mrs. Parkhill, Miss Barbara Parkhill, honoree of the evening, and the four other charming debu-tantes of the season, Miss Grace Freeman. Miss Gertrude McFadden, Miss Gertrude Cornish and Miss Margaret Fuller, whose debut party will be the main social event of next week. Mrs. Parkhill's gown was pink crepe meteor, entrain, with a tunic of silver and crystal embroidered black net. She carried a bouquet of Maryland

Miss Parkhill wore a becoming creation of white accordion pleated chiffon, over satin, with bodice and tunic effect of shadow lace, edged with white fur. A wreath of tiny French rose buds edged the neck, and her flowers were American Beauty roses Her costume was dancing length. During the intermission dainty refreshments were served. There were about 250 guests present and very on enjoyed the occasion to the fullest

Miss Parkhill is a very attractive young girl. She is the granddaughter of the late Judge Joseph B. Wall who was one of the most prominent judges of the state for years. Miss Parkhill was born in Pensacola and lived here during her childhood. The where Judge Parkhill was a member of the supreme court for seven years. Judge Parkill and family moved to Tampa something over a year ago and since that time his daughter has been one of the most popular members of the younger social set.
